

A photograph of three young women standing in a forest. The woman on the left has blonde hair in a braid and wears a black jacket over a white top. The woman in the middle has dark hair and wears a black tank top; an axe is balanced on her right shoulder. The woman on the right has dark hair in a braid and wears a denim jacket over a black top. The background consists of tall, thin trees and a forest floor covered in leaves and pine needles. The lighting is somewhat dim, suggesting a shaded forest.

Would you survive?

A woman with dark hair tied up in a bun is looking directly at the camera. She has a serious expression. On her right eye and cheek, there is a significant injury with dark red, bloody makeup. The background is dark and indistinct, possibly a doorway or a wall. The overall lighting is low, creating a somber and intense atmosphere.

A young woman with long blonde hair in a braid stands in a dark forest. She is wearing a dark jacket over a light-colored top and is holding a hatchet in her right hand, pointing it towards the camera. The background is filled with tree trunks and dappled light.

Would you survive?

A close-up portrait of a young woman with light-colored eyes and dark hair pulled back. She has a serious, weary expression. On her left cheek, there is a deep, jagged laceration with visible blood. The background is a plain, light-colored wall. Overlaid on the right side of the image is the text "Would you survive?" written in a dark green, handwritten font.
